Candice Thum (nee Reed), Australia's first IVF baby opposes the Medicare cuts.

This is will have a major impact on families, individuals, carers, etc right across Australia and not something I will stand for. Surely the run on costs will be far more than the actual cuts, so who really benefits here?

"The bill is 'unfair and flawed'. A victory for families who have emailed members of parliament in recent days with their deeply personal stories of how the changes would hurt them". Hon Catherine King MP

Thank you for standing with ACCESS and bringing hope to many thousands who need medical help to have a family.

Thx to all who sent emails to Senators and MP's. The Senate deferred debate on the bill this morning. Have been at Parliament House all day with others working together to find a solution that the govt can live with. The Greens, some Independent Senators and Labor have listened. Special thanks to the shadow minister for health, The Hon Catherine King MP who spoke against the Bill in the lower house

IVF to be 'only for the rich'

FERTILITY experts have blasted the planned Medicare safety net changes set to go before the Senate tomorrow, claiming it will mean only the rich will be able to afford IVF.

Senate refuses to pass the Safety Net bill. The Minister, unwilling to accept amendments, has shelved the bill until 2016. More than 2,700 emails you sent in just a few days led Senators to rethink the impact on proposed changes. Thank you for sharing your hopes to have a family and fears that reducing Medicare benefits further will put those dreams out of reach.
